Athletics Logo Guidelines

Consistency of brand is very important. Consistency of athletics logos and wordmarks is no exception. However, some flexibility is necessary within the brand in order to accommodate the full range of media necessary to convey the college’s athletics department message. In light of this, various color, layout and other variations are provided to accommodate this need. These variations, however, still must meet the guidelines established for their particular usage. When in doubt about a particular usage or variation, you should always contact the Office of Marketing and Communications for clarification and approval.

APPLIED USE

When utilizing the athletics brands whether EC, Red Devils, or shield logo, it is required that somewhere on the apparel Eureka College is represented. This allows for the natural tie between the college and the athletic team.

Athletics Logo Best Practices

Proper athletic logo usage is vital if we are to present ourselves with a clear, singular voice, personality, and message. The following items will guide you through using our athletics logos properly as well as issues to avoid. If you are still unsure or have questions or concerns about the proper usage or portrayal of a logo, please contact the Office of Marketing and Communications for help.

- Use only approved, unaltered versions of the Eureka College athletics logo(s).
- When scaling (enlarging or reducing) an athletics logo, always make sure that the shift key is used to maintain the original proportion of the mark. The logo(s) must always stay in their original proportions.
- If you don’t have the correct file, you may obtain one by contacting the Office of Marketing and Communications or visiting the Resources tab at www.eureka.edu.
- Use the official athletics logo(s) when Eureka’s athletics logo needs to be shown within a list of visual marks from other entities or institutions.

Please avoid the following

- Never use the athletics logo within text.
- Do not re-create the athletics logo(s) in any way.
- Do not add any additional marks, graphic elements, or words, except as approved by the Office of Marketing and Communications.
- Do not alter the logo, except to change the sizing proportionally.
- Do not outline the logo.
